MUST-SEE TV

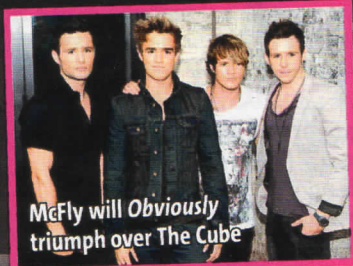

11-17 June

Camelot

Saturday 11 June 9.20pm C4

One Merlin on our screens just isn't enough it seems, as hot on the heels of the Beeb's take on the Arthurian legend (back in the autumn) comes this more grown-up affair with Joseph Fiennes playing the sorcerer.

Dark and compelling, this definitely isn't one for younger kids but should delight purists.

McFly will Obviously triumph over The Cube

The Cube Celebrity Special

Saturday 11 June 8.40pm ITV1

We love the McFly boys here at Bella, so we're excited to see that they're competing in this celebrity special of the Bafta award-winning game show.

We're hoping that the more physical tasks will be doled out to Harry (far left), if only to see those rippling muscles in action!

Luther

Tuesday 14 June 9pm BBC1

The rather wonderful Idris Elba, most recently seen steaming up the small screen as a very handy man in The Big C, returns in a second series of this superior crime drama, this time hunting a serial killer who carries out ritualistic murders in historic locations.

With the excellent Ruth Wilson also starring, this is well worth your time.

Ruth and Idris are back and back-to-back

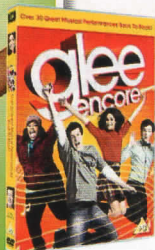

DVD

Glee Encore (PG)

The Glee crew are descending on the UK soon, bringing their bubblegum-bright pop to a live venue near you. So this is a timely release to inspire the Gleek in your life to sing and dance along to some of the gang's musical highlights.

There are over 30 tunes such as Don't Stop Believin' and Jane Lynch's marvellous Madonna tribute, Vogue. Brilliant!

DVD

The Crimson Petal And The White (15)

We loved this BBC adaptation of Michel Faber's novel. Full of looming shadows and twisty lanes, you can almost smell the stench of Victorian London as you're taken through their city's red light district to Mrs Castaway's brothel (with a brilliantly sleazy performance from The X-Files' Gillian Anderson).

Chris O'Dowd from The IT Crowd is almost unrecognisable as factory heir William, who finds solace from his disturbed wife with charismatic prostitute Sugar (Romola Garai).

BOOK

Never Mind The Botox:

Alex by Penny Avis and Joanna Berry (Matador, £6.99)

This is the first in a series celebrating the lives and loves of four professional women all linked to a business deal surrounding a London cosmetic surgery clinic.

When lawyer Alex is employed to look into the takeover of the Beau Street Group by a US company, she uncovers dodgy dealings and botched procedures. Can she save the deal and her relationship? Good fun and just a little bit different.
